- Your Status

- What is your project title?

Anti-tick vaccine efficacy in white-tailed deer

- Give a brief description of the background for your project:

I have a dataset of ~1500 individual ticks with covariate data for each tick (mortality, weight, egg mass, etc.). Ticks originate from three groups of deer with different vaccine status and there were three separate infestations of ticks, so 3 time points. I want to determine if vaccine status and/or time have . Data is not normally distributed and I have yet to identify a transformation that makes the data normal.

- What stage is your research at?

Analysis (data is collected)

- Can you tell us more specifically what questions you have for the consultant?

make sure I am selecting the correct test

- What type of help would you like to obtain from a statistician?

Advise, Collaboration, Contract Work

- Have you met with a statistical consultant before?

No

- Please give a brief description of your statistical training:

basic understanding of stats
